Dear Chris,

I have looked at the information provided with this application and have no objections. The site of the hut is approximately 200m away from the Hesleyside Park SSSI designated for broadleaved woodland and associated flora including lichens. The positioning of the proposed hut will not directly affect this site. The only likely effect on the SSSI from this small scale development could be collecting of wood from within the woodland for the log burning stove. I note that this is mentioned in the design and access statement and a sustainable source of wood is to be provided. Is it possible to include a specific condition that they provide instructions in the hut saying that no wood or other material is to be collected from within the SSSI? The location of the hut at least 10m from any trees and the construction on wheels without foundations or excavation means it is unlikely to have any detrimental effect on the adjacent (undesigned) area of mixed woodland.

There are no likely issues related to protected species related to this application.

Yours sincerely,
Gill Thompson
