Hi Rebecca,

The resubmitted heritage statement resembles the presentation of data without any particular discussion of how it relates to the development. However, it would be unreasonable and disproportionate to the significance of the building to object to these changes. The applicant has demonstrated a willingness to develop the building in a way which allows the different phases of construction to be "read" and using materials and designs in keeping with the general area, regardless of any specific requirement to do so, which is clearly to be welcomed.

Best wishes,
Chris
