I suspected as much, in which case there can be little point in any condition relating to this phase of the development.

Thanks for letting me know,

Chris

Hi Chris,

Just following up on this...

My photos from the site visit last week are here...

The previous building has now been demolished following approval for that in 2014 - on my visit I noted that the land re-profiling works associated with the proposal have already been carried out. Let me know if you have any comments or queries.

Chris
